Date: 16 October 2023

NSS is an association in which each and every volunteer works for their own personality development through various activities which also helps in social skill development . So as a welcome for the new volunteers and to make them aware about the concept of volunteering a session was organized. It was an ice breaking session for the newly enrolled volunteers.

organized at our college seminar hall and the program commenced at 10 am with NSS geetham followed by the welcome speech delivered by volunteer Ameena Mol. Then we gifted the guest a book as token of love. Then presidential address delivered by principal Dr. Chitra Gopinath. After that program officer Dr. Sulfiya Samad delivered the felicitation speech.

Then Beena mam started the session. She had first done an ice breaking session to make the volunteers comfortable each other without any hesitation. It will definitely help them to be able to work together with complete unity and strength as a team. Then she mentioned about all the qualities required for a volunteer. In which the most important one is humanity and empathy. Only an empathetic person can be a true volunteer. They should always come forward without being asked to and being compelled. A volunteer must work according to own will and not with compulsion. The she had done a session with fun games which led the volunteers to know each other more and thus be more comfortable. Then the session ended with feedbacks of volunteers and vote of thanks delivered by volunteer Sreeram.

The session was really engaging for the volunteers. This helped them a lot to know more about the art of volunteering and how to be a true volunteer. This also helped them to break the walls between each other and make them understand their strength as a unit.
