

Wheel Chair Donation – Palliative Activity

Date: 12 December 2023

Considering others needs and taking it as ours is something divine. It is the best way we could be empathetic. Empathy makes us more humane and to get into the souls of reality. It is necessary to understand and acknowledge the pain of the others. Rather than sympathizing it is better to understand and stay with them.

As per the needs put forward by the needful ones on our last home visit, we had arranged a wheelchair. At 4 pm we visited the house of the beneficiary along with our principal. Principal Dr. Chitra Gopinath had done the handing over of the wheelchair. Madam has appreciated us for the efforts we had taken and also put forward further suggestion to increase the quality of their life. Our volunteers had helped him to sit in the wheelchair and had taken him for the home tour. It should be called so as he was lying in the bed and is doing all the daily activities lying in the bed itself. He hadn't even went out from the bed in these all 5 years. It was like spreading new lights of hope in their life. To take out the wheelchair outside home there was also need of ramp. We decided to build that too as fast as possible.

It was a moment of realization that happiness of others bring out the really joy inside us. Moreover, that was so much fulfilling for our souls.

Wheel Chair Donation

The survey among palliative patients in our adopted village helped to find out a lot of needful in our area. Among them, there was a bedridden patient who required the aid of wheel chairs. The NSS unit of our college had donated a wheel chair to the patient today. Our respected college principal Dr. Chithra Crapinath presented it to the patient. Later it was decided to build a slope in the backyard as it was needed to bring the wheelchair outside the house. It was an amazing experience, which enriched minds of volunteers with joy and satisfaction.
